08 More of your reading

Dates we ruled out

76 of the 240 days were ruled out. Some dates clash with the year animal of one of the people in this reading, a pattern practitioners call a clash with the year, and those days are never used for anything that matters: sign nothing, schedule no first meeting, and keep big decisions for a steadier date. Some dates clash with a person's Day pillar, the part of the chart that stands for the self and the closest bond, and those days tend to bring friction and second thoughts: keep talks light, avoid signing, and revisit any decision the following day. Destruction days in the almanac are left out for anything you want to last. A day that is wrong for either of the two people is left out, however good it is for the other. Examples of days to rule out: 27 January 2027, 28 January 2027 and 2 February 2027. Book important meetings elsewhere, and keep these days for routine work.

How this was worked out

Every day in the window you choose is scored against your chart with the same method as Power Days: the day officer in the Chinese almanac, clashes and harmonies with your year and day animals, your Nobleman stars and the elements that help you. Any day that clashes with you (or, for a wedding, with either of you) is ruled out. You get the five best dates with their best hours, why each one works, and which days to avoid.
